

Press Club Brussels Europe/Online

29 March, 09:30 CET

Bridging the Gap between European Energy Security and Climate Transition Policy

The Russian invasion of Ukraine puts the European energy and climate security through its most difficult test so far. The energy crisis that began even before the war has become a stark reminder that the energy policy trilemma of achieving affordability, reliability of supply and environmental sustainability at the same time, is far from solved. The spike in energy prices aggravated by the excessive overreliance on Russian oil, gas and coal imports has, thus, clearly demonstrated the need for a new European Energy and Climate Security Strategy.

Its development and implementation, however, divides the countries into policy takers and policymakers. Bridging the policy ambition gap calls for introducing new evidence-based policy instruments to monitor member-states' progress, such as a European Energy and Climate Security Risk Index.

EURACTIV Bulgaria invites you to address these issues with our panellists.

CONTACT

Georgi Gotev,
gggotev@gmail.com
+324 99 58 725

FOLLOW THE DISCUSSION

Facebook: www.facebook.com/euractiv.bg
Twitter: <https://twitter.com/GeorgiGotev>

PANELLISTS

Radan Kanev, MEP (Democratic Bulgaria, EPP)

Ruslan Stefanov, Program Director, Center for the Study of Democracy

Martin Vladimirov, Director, Energy and Climate Program, Center for the Study of Democracy

Michel Cornet, Partner at CLIMACT

Timon Wehnert, Head, Berlin Office, Wuppertal Institute

Maria Pastukhova, E3G, Senior Policy Advisor, Energy Diplomacy

Bas Eickhout, MEP (the Greens, GroenLinks)

Alexandr Vondra, MEP (ECR, Občanská demokratická strana)

MODERATOR

Georgi Gotev
Senior Editor of EURACTIV.com, publisher of EURACTIV.bg

PROGRAMME

09:30 - 11:00
Panellist statements
Discussion and Q&A
Closing statements

REGISTRATION

To confirm your participation, please register at:
https://us02web.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_2CDezK6UQYmavkx45ds9_A